

An aerial photograph of a road intersection. A purple polygon is drawn over a section of the road, with the number '120' written in black text to its left. The road is paved and has a white center line. The surrounding area is green with some trees and a building with a corrugated metal roof on the right side.

120